FORTY-SECOND YEAR, No. 11

DR. H. S. LEWIS CALLED AWAY BY DEATH AT NEW ORLEANS SATURDAY

Prominent Bay St. Louis Citizen and Noted Son of Famous Orleans Physician Succumbs to Appendicitis.

New Orleans, Bay St. Louis and the Mississippi Gulf Coast mourn the passing away of their beloved physician, friend and counsellor, who passed away unexpectedly in the zenith of his life's work and thereby have truly lost a great man and noble benefactor.

Dr. Hampden Sidney Lewis, 65, prominent surgeon and general practitioner of Bay St. Louis and son of Dr. Ernest Sidney Lewis, of New Orleans, died at 5:45 p. m., Saturday at Hotel Dieu, where he underwent an operation. He was brought to the hospital last Saturday, when he was taken ill.

Born and reared in New Orleans, Dr. Lewis was a graduate of Tulane university and served as house surgeon at Hotel Dieu 40 years ago. He later lectured in obstetrics at Tulane university. During the World war he served as a major in the medical corps and was stationed at the government hospital at Waco, Texas, as a surgeon.

Dr. Lewis is survived by his widow, the former Miss Corinne de Montluzin, of Bay St. Louis; by his father who is a distinguished retired New Orleans physician and instructor of Dr. Rudolph Matas; by two brothers, Walter S. Lewis and Meriweather Lewis; and by two sisters, Miss Florence Lewis and Mrs. Nora Lewis Goodwin, all of New Orleans.

Dr. Lewis was a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Dr. Lewis was actively connected with the Boston, the Pickwick, the Louisiana clubs and with various Carnival organizations when he lived in New Orleans before moving to Bay St. Louis 12 years ago.

Funeral services for Dr. Lewis were held at 2 p. m. Sunday from funeral parlors of the Patrick J. McMahon-Columbian company, 2305 Canal street, with Dr. Charles Monro, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, officiating. Interment, private, in Metairie cemetery.

Pallbearers were Dr. Joseph A. Danna, Rene de Montluzin, Jr., S. F. Lewis, Walter J. Gex, Sr., C. A. Latham and Alfred J. Lewis.

The death of Dr. Lewis, at dusk Saturday evening, was not totally unexpected for during the two days prior to the end his condition was reported anything but satisfactory. Solicitous friends and acquaintances received the unwelcome tidings with apprehension though hopeful.

A victim of appendicitis, he journeyed to New Orleans a week to undergo the ordeal. His condition then was considered grave and death was victorious over an unceasing battle, through a week's duration.

Dr. Lewis was a leading physician of New Orleans and the Gulf Coast and his passing not only removes one of knowledge and skill, a master in the practice of medicine and surgery, but withal a gentleman and friend.

RAILROAD TO DELIVER FREIGHT

Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company Now Delivers Shipments in City.

Door-to-door delivery service on less-than-carload shipments will be started by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad on March 15, as scheduled. Local transfer company, A. L. Lader and Sons, under contract, and fully bonded and insured, will act as agents for the railroad in performing the pick-up and delivery service locally.

Within a range of 230 miles from destination the service will be accorded without additional charge at the regular depot-to-depot rates, with an allowance of five cents a hundred pounds made to those who perform their own transfer service. On shipments going outside the free zone a charge of ten cents a hundred pounds will be made to cover the service, if rendered, at either or both ends.

The establishing of the plan, the L. & N. Magazine says, is the result of a two-year study of its possibilities and of its practicability.

Brother William's Mother Returns to New Jersey Home.

Mrs. Sharkey, mother of Bro. William, president of St. Stanislaus College, after a "surprise visit" to her son of three weeks, left Bay St. Louis Saturday en route to her home in New Jersey, near New York City. While here Mrs. Sharkey received many attentions from ladies of Bay St. Louis. But these many attentions did not deter her from working and "quilting" a quilt of beauty and comfort which she presented to St. Stanislaus Parents' Club to do with it what ever they deemed to realize additional funds for the treasury. While here Mrs. Sharkey became a member of the association and in souvenir of her visit and as a mark of personal consideration and appreciation made a cash donation. Her wide circle of newly-made friends regretted to see her leave, hoping, however, she will give her son another "surprise visit."

JORDAN RIVER SECTION OF HANCOCK CO. OFFERS MANY OPPORTUNITIES

No Place Like It For The Homeseeker—Even the Commuter From New Orleans In Future May Make It Home—Bridge Over Mouth to Pine Hills Offers Added Opportunities.

By DR. CARROLL W. ALLEN
(For The Sea Coast Echo)

I have at various times mentioned to you my thoughts and opinion about the Jordan River Country, and want at this time to more particularly call your attention to this section, and present some of its advantages and possibilities as I see them.

I estimate that there is room for about 100 additional homes on the vacant property on the beach-front between Waveland and the end of the seawall at the mouth of Jordan River. Much of this will require considerable filling before it can be occupied. This property will no doubt be taken up fairly quickly on the return of normal conditions, but can be occupied only by the comparatively well-to-do, and only as home sites.

There is on the other hand in the Jordan River Basin considerably in excess of 100 miles of deep water frontage, more than three times the entire coast line from Waveland to Ocean Springs. Water deep enough for ordinary boats to land at the bank right at your front door, where they can be moored, safe from storms.

On the river, a man will have an estate instead of a building site. These river estates will offer to the well-to-do, a quiet home with ample grounds for a landscaped park, and the life of a country gentleman; but should be particularly appealing to the vast army of the middle-class; the $1,500.00, $2,000.00, or $3,000.00 a year man. The man who wants a garden, chicken-yard, orchard and fish for the table, caught almost at his front door. A place where you can catch or raise nearly all the food he and his family eat, and a wood-lot to afford cheap fuel for winter time. A pleasant, healthful and profitable way of spending his leisure or idle time in reducing his over-head of living expenses. All of this is afforded in a small estate in a beautiful and attractive setting costing but a few hundred dollars on the banks of one of the many waterways. Thousands of people have learned in their recent desperate needs that it is poor

INCOME TAX PAYMENTS ARE EXTENDED BY TREASURY

15 Days Granted Because Of Bank Holiday Difficulty.

Washington, March 14.—A 15-day extension in income tax payments was granted by the Treasury today because of the troubled banking situation which has made it difficult for many people to meet this obligation.

Taxpayers taking advantage of the extension, however, will be required to pay six percent interest for the 15-day period upon a quarter of the total tax due.

Quarterly Payments Set

Normally income tax payments are due by midnight of March 15. The tax may be paid in a lump sum or in quarterly installments.

Under the extension granted today, the taxpayer owing $100 and planning to pay it in four installments would proceed as follows:

The return and first quarterly payment of $25 would be due by midnight of March 31, plus six percent interest thereon which would amount to six cents for 15 days. The other payments would be due on the 15th of June, September and December. There would be no interest charge on these installments.

Statement Made

The Treasury decision addressed to all collectors of internal revenue and others concerned follows:

"In accordance with the provision of Section 53 of the Revenue act of 1922, an extension of time for filing income tax returns for individuals, fiduciaries, and corporations for the calendar year 1932, is hereby granted up to and including March 31, 1933, and the returns when so filed shall be accompanied by at least one-fourth of the tax, together with interest on such amounts at the rate of six percent per annum from March 15, 1933."

The decision was signed by Secretary of the Treasury Woodin and David Burnett, commissioner of internal revenue.

Treasury officials declined to estimate how many taxpayers would avail themselves of the time extension, although it was anticipated that many persons who have funds tied up in banks would delay making their returns and payment until March 31.

VIOLATING LAW AND HOARDING POSITIVE INJUSTICE TO OTHERS

W. J. Gex, Sr., Recognized Legal Authority, Gives Views on Hoarding and Circulation of Currency.

Bay St. Louis, Miss., March 16, 1933. Mr. Chas. G. Moreau, Editor, The Sea Coast Echo, Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Dear Mr. Editor:

In reference to your inquiry for my views upon the hoarding of money, and the right of the Government prohibiting it, from a legal standpoint, I beg to state that I view the matter, as follows:

The United States Government has undertaken to control and issue currency, or the medium of exchange which we should use in this country. What it issues is paper interwoven with silk, etc., to prevent easy forging. It issues that backed up by the faith, credit and all of the assets of the Government, and in most cases by billions of dollars of gold stored in the Treasury. The money is the medium of exchange by which people do their trading of very kind. The Government has ample currency out for that purpose. However, when a person who is fortunate enough to obtain the medium of exchange and puts it out of circulation either putting it in a bank box, or burying it, he is not only violating the law but doing a positive injustice to his fellow men, because he takes just that much of the circulating medium out of the channels of trade, and consequently, on the law of Supply and Demand, reduces values to that extent.

The medium of exchange should be used solely for the purpose for which it was issued, and none other. If any one wants to hide and store his property, it is perfectly legitimate for him to buy commodities or other things and do the hiding and storing of those, but let the medium of exchange go on its course and serve the purpose for which it was issued. If the Government could know just how much was stored and buried and thereby taken out of the channels of commerce by each individually, it would be easy enough to issue more currency; however it has no means of knowing it, and when enough of it gets stored and buried, as has been done recently, then of course for lack of circulating medium everything goes to pieces, values are terribly depreciated, and everything goes to pieces.

If a man wants to store his earthly wealth in bank boxes or bury it under the ground I submit that he has a right to do that, provided it is not the circulating medium which is issued for the purpose hereinabove set out. Why not buy potatoes, eggs, or anything else and store that; that does no harm, and the title to that property passes absolutely to the owner; with the circulating medium the title is his for the purpose for which it was issued; it is true, and for that reason it is my opinion that the Government has a perfect right to enact laws to punish those who hide it, and that it is morally wrong for the reasons hereinabove mentioned.

Yours truly,
W. J. GEX, SR.

BAY ST. LOUIS A. & G. THEATER ANNOUNCES CUT IN ADMISSION PRICE

Prices, Management Says, Lower Than Any Theater On The Gulf Coast.

Announcement, that the A. & G. Theatre management will inaugurate policy of prices which is 10c and 25c, tax paid, beginning this Friday with Tom Mix in "The Rider of Death Valley," we are sure will be of interest to the theater going public, and the theater will enjoy the increased patronage which it deserves, and that will be necessary to maintain their high quality of pictures and the new low prices of admission.

The A. & G. Theater management announces this policy with a view of helping to relieve the present tense situation, willing to do its share in order the public may not be deprived of their customary amusement and favorite entertainment.

There will be no change in the high quality of productions screened, on the contrary, it is stated that efforts will be more than ever to procure current features—the kind of pictures shown in the larger cities that interest.

This reduction is quite drastic and the people will reap the benefit. We feel sure a continued liberal patronage will be shown both in appreciation and as a means of pleasure, entertainment and instruction.

The Echo congratulates the management on this move. Remember, the new prices go into effect this Friday night.

NOTICE OF MEETING.

The Woman's Missionary Society will meet on Tuesday, March 21, at 3 P. M., with Mrs. W. L. Bourgeois at The Answer.

DR. HAMPDEN S. LEWIS.

NEWS of the death of Dr. Hampden Sidney Lewis, at New Orleans last Saturday evening, as the sunset faded into the west, was received here later that evening with much sorrow, the news a shock to the many who knew and loved him and who were grateful for the ministrations of his profession. Dr. Lewis' charities were wide-spread and unbounded and with his passing away this is additional loss to the people of this section in which he practiced.

Dr. Lewis was truly a friend to man. He lived for others. His name and deeds are imperishable. Of this generation who knew him he will never be forgotten.

The community has not only lost a benefactor but a citizen of the highest type. A man of ideals, fine perception and ever willing to do, his usefulness will be missed more than ordinarily.

Bay St. Louis and Hancock county have been hard hit the past recent years by the hand of death. Both county and city have lost splendid citizens, men who meant so much, who were leaders, either in public or private life. In mourning our personal loss we also mourn the loss to the community. Men who count are those who do the greatest good to the greater number of people.

Our people knew Dr. Lewis for many years, a resident of New Orleans he visited here and spent his summers on our shores. He was noted for his work, a son of a famous physician and surgeon; he was born gifted, a genius who held the surgeon's knife with skill.

Our loss is double. First as a citizen and friend. Secondly, as a great leader and benefactor to suffering humanity. A loss hard to sustain.

WAVELAND'S MAYOR DIES.

EDWARD G. Schwartz, mayor of our sister city of Waveland, passed away at an early hour Saturday morning, going through the transition of life to death in peaceful sleep.

Mayor Schwartz had the best interest of Waveland and its citizens to heart at all times. With co-operation of his associates he had accomplished much for the town and plans for immediate future promised much. It is well-known Waveland's tax rate is low with a maximum of public improvements and more than once were the mayor and aldermen complimented on their accomplishments. Mayor Schwartz, originally from New Orleans was well and widely known. He was well liked and the news of his passing away was received with general regret. Although advanced in years, he was active and mind ever alert. He was one of Waveland's best friends, ever alive to the best interest of the town in which he made his home and the people who live there.

We regret to note the passing away of this fine character and man who served the public unstintingly and efficiently.

THE ASSASSIN'S BULLET.

SYMPATHY seldom is withheld from the man who struggles for recovery from an assassin's bullet. After the lapse of half a century, the two month contest of Pres. Garfield with death is remembered. President McKinley carried on for eight days, amid the prayers and hopes of a united people. Mayor Cermak fought a good fight for something over a fortnight, but it was destined that he should not win. About eighty prominent persons have departed this life by assassination since the passing of President Lincoln. Like Lady MacBeth, they should have died thereafter. No way of stopping actually physical assassination is known at present. Until a means to that end is discovered, everyone at least can refrain from the more subtle assassination which consists in thwarting the efforts of able men of honest purpose, by too free use of bitter and partisan speech.

OPENING OF BANKS RE-ASSURING.

REOPENING of banks this week, after a holiday period is welcomed in more ways than one and will redound to the benefit of both national and state institutions, first as to their solidity and solvency and secondly will inspire and renew the public confidence.

Banks that are open have been checked, so to speak, their stability attested to by the authorities and with this official stamp of approval, the public feel there is now greater assurance than heretofore and will resume their business with banks with satisfaction and that knowledge that people cannot do without banks.

It is well to remember there is no hiding place for money. No such thing exists. It is either stolen or lost. And too frequently "hid" in the house destroyed by fire.

Now that this phase of economic upheaval is settled let us turn our attention to other channels of constructive doing. In other words, let's go to work.

The people of Bay St. Louis have all that is necessary to make prosperity, mainly good character and a willingness to work for a living.

The time for people to show their patriotism and their loyalty to the United States, is at hand. We won't need a war to show up the pseudo-patriotism that considers self, first, last and all the time.

A LEADER—NOT A DICTATOR.

ECONOMY bill, already passed by the House, and probably will pass the Senate before the Echo will have gone to press, and this is printed, will give President Roosevelt added power in this emergency as in time of war.

It appears the Senate is not agreeable as the House. In the upper house amendments are proposed, where "ifs" and "ands" might result in objectives and stumbling blocks.

Well it is to give the President practically unlimited power when an unprecedented crisis in the world's history threatens the people of this country.

Speaker of the House Rainey, of Tennessee, in an address over radio Monday evening said the present was far worse than war time. During the conflict we had only to fight. People had plenty and the nation had flowing wealth. There was no dearth of any of the elements a condition from which we now suffer so acutely. We were strong and content and able to fight for the accomplished victory.

Today we are literally fighting starvation in a country of plenty. The enemy might be fought, but in the absence of relief we cannot fight starvation.

Speaker Rainey paid tribute to Woodrow Wilson, the war-time president, without disparagement. He said Roosevelt was a greater executive in time of crisis. The President has proven his ability and success in coping with the situation.

It is hoped the Senate will pass the Economy Bill as is. There will be no danger in transacting to him such power of dictatorship.

President Roosevelt is not a dictator but a leader.

PUT THAT DOLLAR TO WORK.

A DOLLAR spent now for construction or maintenance of property is in for a very busy time.

It enters the pocket of the workman on the job. It goes to the local dealer who sells you the supplies and materials. It passes through the hands of the transportation companies that carry them from the factory to you. It spends a time in the coffers of the concern manufacturing them, and from there goes to its employees. It visits the related concerns selling raw materials and basic supplies to the manufacturer. It goes to the government in taxes, and to the investor in the form of dividends. And, finally, it starts the cycle all over again, when someone else uses it for improving his own property.

This little dollar, too, has an amazing purchasing power at this time. It will buy more lumber, more paint, more electric wiring, more of similar supplies, and employ more labor than it has for several decades past. It will give you a chance to improve and increase the value of your property at rock-bottom bargain prices. If you keep it in hiding, it's worthless—only by taking it out and putting it to work can you and others gain its potential benefits.

So—put your spare dollars to work on your property. Make them fix or renew the furnace, the roof, the garage. Make them paint the building and repair the steps. You'll be getting your money's worth several times over—and you'll be providing employment in a dozen businesses and doing your part to alleviate distress and build purchasing power.

Jobs are cheaper and better than charity—and without jobs there won't be any money for charity.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA SUFFERS.

A SERIES of earthquakes in southern California affecting that part known as Los Angeles and outlying towns down to the beaches eighteen miles away, Friday morning when the heaviest shock and one doing major damage, took place. Continuing ever since at long intervals. Each time seemingly milder.

One hundred and forty-odd lives were lost and thousands injured, seriously and otherwise, shocked and terrified. This is the heaviest experience of the kind felt in California since the San Francisco quake when greater damage resulted from fire. Santa Barbara, one hundred miles north of Los Angeles, some years ago was practically destroyed likewise.

But San Francisco built anew, stronger and more attractive; Santa Barbara since the quake became attractive, a veritable vision of uniformity and beauty (Spanish architecture) and Los Angeles and surrounding towns and cities will follow likewise.

People of the Pacific slope lose home and belongings, fortune and possessions, but they never fail in the zeal of their courage. They are not to be daunted. They are down but never counted out, and we expect again they will overcome the frown of disaster. The Land of Balboa, of sunshine and flowers, smiles today as ever. It is blessed with beauty. Like our own Gulf Coast it is a land where skies are bluest and hope ever abounds.

While sufficiently tragic, the results could have been manifold. It is hoped the quakes have permanently subsided in order people may return to their task of rebuilding and again take up the ends of daily pursuit where left off before the earthquake.

OUR GREAT PRESIDENT.

FEW things that have occurred during the present generation reflect greater credit upon the American people than the poise and calmness with which the closing of the banks, by President Roosevelt, was received. There were no signs of hopelessness and terror, no congregating at street corners, no closing of places of business. The work of the land, although crippled, went forward as usual. The assurance manifested was not the assurance that disaster would follow, but, rather, the assurance that relief was ahead. There is a general readiness to accept a new medium of exchange, and to cooperate with the government in relieving a situation which, although not all that might be desired, might have been infinitely worse.

Subscribers to this journal of news and views might as well send in their checks and when the banks are open for business we'll get the money.

SAUNTERINGS. From Where The West Begins.

By JOHN T. MEYERS
(For the Sea Coast Echo)

IMPRESSIONS noted on a 50-mile Sunday motor jaunt into ranchland southward from San Antonio: Exhilaration of the open road fills one with that roving, wanderlust spirit of the vagabond. Cattle seem to graze more serenely on the Sabbath day. Overhead fluffy, white clouds drift aimlessly about amid the cerulean sea of the heavens above.

The unpretentious appeal of rural towns that dot the highway. A school house, with a church nearby, nestled amid a picturesque setting of cactus and mesquite growth. Weatherbeaten U. S. Post Office sign on a ramshackled, little hut. Here marks the last stand of the chummy old time general. Merchandise store. Humble, unpainted dwellings indexing the lives of the simple-pleasant-faced, laboring folks, who sit on porches unimpaired of passing traffic at their door steps.

HEAD held high, looking neither left nor right, a mother goose leads her cunning, ugly flock defiantly across the highway. We must halt until the procession passes. A group of cowboys jog by, waving a hand in friendly greeting. Squatting before a roadside campfire, a Mexican family prepare their breakfast. Nearby is a double-teamed, donkey drawn covered wagon, and their mode of travel. Carefree nomads, clad in gray colored garments. Flashing white teeth in gracious reply to our, "Buenos dias, amigos."

A Chaparral Cock, or roadrunner as this old ground bird is commonly called, darts rapidly into the cactus jungle beside the road. Spanish dagger plants sending forth huge, wax like blossoms. Visualizing the near future beauty of this countryside when springtime's lavish array of bluebonnets, and wild flowers, rivaling the hues of rainbow, will come to life, transforming southwest Texas into a veritable paradise.

THE bracing morning air whets the party's appetites. Some one reminds: Meals on the road always a gamble. Hunger over rides the question of risks. An enjoyable breakfast of hot cakes, bacon, and coffee in a cozy, hotel restaurant of a dreamy town just awakening from its night's slumber. A party of wolf hunters enter. Tired and worn from an all-night session of the chase in specially built trailers attached behind their motor cars.

A day crammed with interesting activity and a source of information bits of which will be unfolded in the near future. Ranchmen confident condition soon to show upward trend. Farmers optimistic, as never before during recent hectic years, by prospects of advancing market prices. Vast acres of cotton fields under cultivation. Corn, peanuts, and other crops planted, and relying only on favorable weather conditions to produce an abundant harvest.

Poultry raisers report a low level on egg prices. Choice, fresh eggs bringing only 5 cents per dozen from wholesale produce buyers.

RANCHLAND households seem little concerned with discussion of national banking holidays. These folks do not rely on day-to-day food purchases, as do their city cousins. Here smokehouses are always stocked with delicious smoked hams, bacon, cured beef, sausage, lard, and other food stuff. Fresh eggs, milk, chickens, and vegetables from the garden are most effective weapons that ward off the clutching fingers of depression.

COMMENTING on this fact our host, with a roguish twinkle in his eye, drawled: "Ranch and farm folks may not have much ready cash or fine clothes, but they never go to bed with hunger gnawing at their stomachs either." We are willing to wager that many among the hordes of unemployed in cities who forsook the farms are beginning to realize the wisdom of this barnyard philosophy. A noticeable back to the farm movement has already been noted in many localities, it is reported.

RIDING on an inspection tour of cattle, a rancher heard the doleful bleat of a doe in distress. Dismounting from the saddle, he cautiously crept closer in the direction from which the cry came. His curiosity was soon satisfied, as he beheld a large panther tormenting its prey. The panther was mimicking a house cat playing with a mouse it has injured before deciding to make a meal of the catch.

Slapping the helpless doe with its big paw, and snarling viciously if the doe attempted to struggle out of its clutches, the panther was having a big time. He did not suspect the ranchman's presence. Watching the one-sided contest for a short time, the man lifted his rifle to shoulder, took deliberate aim at the panther, and fired. Another panther bit the dust. The doe escaped into the underbrush.

FAITH, and be sure its shamrock green will be a-wearing to day. For 'til St. Patrick's day we'll celebrate in the gay Irish way. Golly, if we keep this up we might accidentally grind out a St. Patrick's day poem. But we are skeptical about the meter—especially so, since we received last month's gas and light bill. Anyway, we'll see if we can't dig

WHAT THE PRESS SAYS.

CALIFORNIA HORROR.
(N. O. States)

MR. BRISBANE, in his comment in The States Monday, writing from Detroit and referring to the terrorizing earthquake in southern California, said:

A succession of comparatively mild earthquake shocks, rapidly following each other, in Southern California damaged certain buildings, insecurely built. Injury to human beings was caused mainly by falling bricks. Great hotels and office buildings, constructed in accordance with modern methods, were not injured.

The earthquakes still arouse superstitious fear as the appearance of comets used to do. This one will be much exaggerated in other parts of the country.

Mr. Brisbane must have written the foregoing before he had any knowledge of the facts. The loss of 150 lives, the injury of 5000 people, some of whom probably will die, others be maimed for life, the property destruction estimated at $50,000,000 and photographs showing the frightful havoc wrought by the tremor constitute the answer to Mr. Brisbane's statement that it was only a "series of comparatively mild earthquake shocks" that Los Angeles suffered.

Mr. Brisbane, so firmly sold on California as against the rest of the country, says the 'quake will be "much exaggerated in other parts of the country," evidently meaning jealousy.

We cannot agree with our distinguished commentator. All the facts of the California shock have been sent to the newspapers by press associations and native correspondents and thousands of visitors there. They are beyond exaggeration.

But even if they were not, we are sure that, whatever may be the friendly rivalry between California on the one hand and Florida, Louisiana, the Gulf Coast, the Eastern section and any other on the other, none of the latter would seek to make capital out of the miseries that have befallen the people of the Pacific coast.

On the contrary, everywhere there will be profound grief over the catastrophe and heartfelt sympathy with the sufferers from this horrifying providential visitation, coupled with the hope that Southern California will repeat the achievement of San Francisco, rebuild its ruins and continue to be one of the most attractive sections of the United States. At least that is the feeling of the people of Louisiana and the whole south.

GOLD CIRCULATES.

(Gulfport Herald)

There is some complaint, as expected, by owners of gold being forced from hoarding places by Government laws, regulations and Executive (treasury) orders. It has been kept in safety boxes in banks, and stockings, mattresses and holes in private places, which apparently have been pretty safe. Banks and merchants daily report circulation of gold from these sources as the clink of the yellow metal evidences its return as a trade medium.

The need of its return to the Treasury in exchange for the country's currency, is a national need; and those who possess it and would like to hold it because they know it is valued by weight and is good up a clay pipe, stovepipe, hat, and take our dimpled, cozy-checked pillow out for a stroll on this very fine day. Say, who threw that shillalah? Erin, go bragh!

Many Object To Bilbo Appointment

Jackson, March 14.—At least two hundred telegrams have been sent the two Mississippi Senators since Saturday protesting the reported appointment of Ex-Governor Bilbo as director of extension forces under the United States Department of Agriculture. The appointment is reported to have Senator Harrison's support, but to be objectionable to Senator Stephens. Most of the protesting wires were inspired by extension agents, but many were inspired by purely political motives.

LONG TO ADDRESS 'NATION ON FRIDAY.

Senator Long will broadcast an address over a nation-wide radio hookup between 10:30 and 11 p. m. Friday on "How to Set the Country Right," according to word received yesterday.

"You are very hoarse today." "Yes, my husband came home late last night—Lustige Kolner Zietung."

"How Is Your Chimney?"

HOW is your chimney? is a well-timed question to put to citizens of Mississippi, following a report by the National Board of Fire Underwriters which shows that the principal cause of fire in this state during 1931 was defective flues and chimneys, resulting in a loss of $1,155,597.

Original poor construction of chimneys and hazardous conditions developing later, are the underlying causes. In connection with its report, the National Board recommends that chimneys be solidly built from the ground up. They should not rest upon a platform of any kind in the house or outside, as this will settle, possibly developing cracks in the chimney, permitting sparks to escape into the walls. Most urgent of all, floor beams should be carried around the chimney so that they cannot touch it. If these timbers are supported by the chimney, the ends will exert tremendous leverage when the building settles. Cracks will become larger each year, until heat and sparks can pass into the concealed space between ceilings and floors. All chimneys should be equipped with an approved flue lining.

It is equally important that chimneys be kept in condition. They should be inspected and cleaned thoroughly each year. If soft coal or oil burning equipment is used, a hazardous layer of soot usually forms on flue walls. Even when hard coal is used, soot should be cleaned from smokepipes and the bottom of the chimney at least once a year.

In the entire United States the total loss due to chimneys during 1931 amounted to $25,921,046. "Safer chimneys" should have a place among the national slogans.

CARRIERS SEEK LOWER RATES

Mississippi Body Gets Railroads' Request for Reduced Fares.

Four railroads have petitioned Mississippi Railroad commission for permission to establish for a six months period a passenger rate of two cents per mile for coach fares and three cents, with no surcharge for sleeping car fares.

The roads are the Louisville and Nashville; Mobile and Ohio; Gulf, Mobile and Northern and New Orleans and Great Northern. The latter two roads now have these fares in Mississippi but joined in the petition for reduced interline rates.

The petition also asks that state and Federal taxes be removed.

BEAUTY—YOUR BIRTHRIGHT

By BETTE BLEACHES

It is surprising how many simple and everyday things will bleach the skin. Lemon juice, cucumber juice, tomato juice from fresh or canned tomatoes, are all very effective bleaches. The juice is applied to skin after it has been thoroughly cleansed, left on for some time, then rinsed off.

Buttermilk is another very good bleach. Pat it into the clean skin, leave on over night, or until it dries, then rinse the face. You will be delighted with the appearance of your skin.

Remember though it is useless to bleach the skin unless you intend to protect it from the sun, as bleaching makes the skin more sensitive to the sun's rays and continual tanning coarsens it.

Next week I will tell you of some bleach packs which are not expensive to make and which are very effective. Try them. You will be well pleased with results.

business paying house rent or taxes for a house in town that can be used only as a dwelling, when the same investment provides a country estate, with all the above advantages.

Another great advantage of this river property for the man of limited means is that it is outside City limits and not subject to the high taxes now imposed on the beachfront, which has always been a great handicap. Its development however on any large scale must add considerably to the county treasury, and serve to relieve the burden elsewhere.

This is the nearest location to New Orleans, presenting attractive possibilities for large scale development and would be hard to duplicate at any point on the Gulf Coast, and its geographic position in its proximity to New Orleans must count heavily in its favor against any other similar development that might be started in more remote locations.

The soil on the banks of the river and bayous is much richer than that on the beach front, which presents advantages both for gardening and beautification.

Some of the many bayous can be dammed and made into fresh water lakes and stocked with black bass. Many opportunities also exist for the building of private lakes.

The marsh on the north shore of Jordan River near its mouth could be cheaply converted into a series of islands, getting rid of this unsightly and objectionable feature, and converting this now worthless area into a little "Venice."

Incidentally, it may be of interest to know that Mr. Bontemps, the County Game Warden has selected a tract of the writer's property as a state game preserve. It has not yet been approved by the commissioner, but I understand that this will be done. When approved it will be stocked with turkeys, pheasants and quail, and given full State protection.

There is an air-field in the neighborhood now maintained by the Government, but is available for public use as soon as the demand develops. We are the only coast town having such a landing field.

There is of course much development to be done in this area before any large tracts can be opened up for settlement, but there are at this time hundreds of locations that are now ready for occupancy, and there remains but for us to show the people what we have, as many of them do not even know of its existence.

This entire Jordan River section can be completely landlocked by some protective development at the mouth of the river, thus shutting out storm tides which in a severe hurricane must seriously damage the entire front.

I have gone over the entire area with engineers, and the most practical suggestion would be to build a causeway at the mouth of the river on the mud-flats, using earth from this shallow area to build the embankment, and making it wide enough for building sites on each side of a center road. This causeway should extend from highland to the north of the river, running south over these flats to the river channel, which is but a few hundred feet wide. This narrow channel could then be bridged. By so constructing or narrowing the opening amount of water that would enter during storm tide would be very much reduced, and would probably not reach any great height, when distributed along the numerous waterways before the storm would be over.

Later when the development up the river would justify a lock or gate could then be placed at this point. This causeway and bridge would be of decided advantage to Bay St. Louis, in offering ready access to the area directly to the north, including Pine Hills. Practically all of this neighborhood now goes to Pass Christian 11 or 12 miles away. The idea in making the causeway wide enough for building sites, that the sale of these sites would defray the cost of the causeway.

Pine Hills will be occupied and utilized in some profitable way in time, and with this bridge it is but 3 to 4 miles at most from the Bay, and it consequently becomes a suburb and an additional asset for our town.

I feel that the City Fathers and those who have the destiny and future of Bay St. Louis in their hands should begin now to mould public opinion and direct attention to this section. It is the biggest asset that Bay St. Louis has and offers greater possibilities in a natural way than those enjoyed by any other coast town.

It is the feeling of the writer that the next few years will see some material changes in our economic structure. I feel that the five day week will be adopted for the majority of our industrial workers, as a means of giving employment to a larger number. If not we will face the possibility of serious disorders of a socialistic or communistic nature.

With the five day week and more time on his hands a suburban home becomes more attractive to the industrial workers as he will have more time to devote to its improvement and enjoy its possibilities.

No one knows better than the newspaper man that it pays to advertise. Bay St. Louis is a suburb of New Orleans. Let the people know what you have. Open the door and invite them in. Make them feel that when times get better and they can afford it they will make their home in your community.

NATION BACKING PRESIDENT

White House Deluged With Congratulating Messages.

The White House was deluged Monday with pledges of support for President Roosevelt in his handling of the banking emergency.

They came in the form of great stacks of mail, sheaves of telegrams and telephone calls from persons in all walks of life in all sections of the country.

Although such pledges started coming in great volume last Monday, following proclamation of the banking holiday, they reached a peak following the President's appeal Sunday night. From the time Mr. Roosevelt "signed off," the House telephone lines were loaded to capacity with incoming calls, with hundreds more still coming in Monday.

The President's decisive program of action has inspired confidence throughout the nation, Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois said Monday after a call at the White House. He said:

"I have never seen a quicker transformation of sentiment from discouragement to encouragement, from despair to hope. It is all based on the fact that there at last has been action and it has created a general atmosphere of confidence."

DeathsMAYOR OF WAVELAND PASSES ON

Executive Head of Sister City Dies at Home While Asleep Friday Morning

Hon. E. G. Schwartz, mayor of the town of Waveland, after a prolonged illness, passed away while asleep at his home on the Waveland beach at about 3 o'clock Saturday morning. While he had been ill for quite a while and advanced in years, his death in a measure was a surprise. Only the day previously he had smoked the usual number of cigars per day and was in splendid spirit.

He was aged 73 years, a native of New Orleans, and is survived by his wife, who, before her marriage, was Miss Ethel Bowe, and a married son and daughter by a first marriage.

Mr. Schwartz had been a resident of Waveland for sixteen years, owning his home and had always proven an active and valued citizen. He had first served as alderman and later was elected to the mayoralty, with eighteen months of his term yet to go. During his illness the board of aldermen had selected one of their members, John Eckle, as mayor pro tem, who served as the official escort when the body was taken to New Orleans Saturday afternoon on the "Mary Jane" train for interment the next day, funeral from the Albert E. Briede Funeral Home, Camp street. Many friends, in addition to officials attended the funeral.

While Mayor Schwartz was conservative he was progressive and always found on the side of improvements and every amelioration always on a sound basis. He filled the trust both with credit to his constituents and honor to the office and self, and in his death the town has sustained an outstanding loss. A special election, it was said, will be held to fill the vacancy.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Glover had as their guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Glover, of New Orleans, who motored out for the day.

—Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth St. J. Elliott accompanied by Mr. John Tenney, son and daughter, all of Hattiesburg, Miss., spent Sunday at Bay St. Louis, enjoying a pleasant fishing trip. Mr. Elliott who until recently was connected with the U. S. Tire Co., with headquarters at Monroe, La., is now with the Hattiesburg Tire Company.

—Uncle Charlie's night club management will celebrate the first anniversary of the club opening on Saturday night of this week and many guests are expected from various points, including friends from New Orleans. Mr. Breath is quite proud of the manner in which the public has responded to his efforts at dance and entertainment and will mark the anniversary event by appropriate celebration.

Chone rallies in last Chone summed up all the courage he had for the tenth round and he cut loose left and rights to the head which caught Mallini several times but the Mississippi slugger, even though he was far out in front, refused to retreat. He just kept plugging away, exchanging blow for blow until finally getting over his pet body punches again. One punch from Chone in that tenth might have knocked Mallini to the canvas. Still he left himself wide open and slugged for all he knew how. That's what has made Mallini so popular here. He never stops trying.

The bout got rough at times. From our seat at the ringside, we could hear the referee warn them about cursing. He had to caution Mallini about butting and you could see that there was no love lost between the two. Mallini weighed 159 1-4, Chone 157 1-4.

Mallini Gives Chone Body Beating in Ten Round Bout at N. O.

By Harry Martinez
Buster Mallini, the wild and woolly fighter from Kila, Miss., made sure that Ralph Chone would not stand in his way of a return bout with Eddie Flynn Monday night by giving the latter an artistic body beating for ten rounds at the Coliseum. There could be no doubt as to the winner when Duke Durrell entered the ring to make the final award after comparing the slips of Referee Jimmy Moran and the two judges. Chone had fought a game fight to stand up under the severe fight for him and he probably realized this at the end.

Chone started off as if he might outbox the pride of Mississippi using an effective left hook to the face and shooting his right for the jaw at every opportunity but hardly had the scrap reached the second round before Mallini started sinking his left deep into Chone's midsection. So much so that Chone started to hold and Referee Moran had a busy night trying to separate the pair.

Throughout the third round Mallini worked on his opponent's body but in the fourth, Chone decided to do or die and it was given and taken from going to gong. They battered one another about the head, planted rights and lefts to the body that left the fans wondering what was holding up either fighter, but the strain told on Chone. He slowed up under the attack and throughout the fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth, Mallini simply tore after him and it took only a boy with iron nerve to take such body punishment. In the eighth Mallini caught Chone with a right to the kidney which almost cut him in two. He backed Chone against the ropes and tried to measure him with his right but failed to land as effectively as his left to the body.

Chone rallied in last Chone summed up all the courage he had for the tenth round and he cut loose left and rights to the head which caught Mallini several times but the Mississippi slugger, even though he was far out in front, refused to retreat. He just kept plugging away, exchanging blow for blow until finally getting over his pet body punches again. One punch from Chone in that tenth might have knocked Mallini to the canvas.
